“ Grandpa,

It seems so unreal to look at your house and not see your bathroom light on. I could always depend on you to look after me. You would call me when you saw a light on or a glare on my car. You would say, "Honey, I think you left the light on in your car.: I could call you to bring your pistol and shoot the head off the snake I had tried to kill with my shovel but his head would not come off. You had the perfect shot and that copperhead was dead. You were always there to feed my Pepper when I had to be out of town or even Elvis even though she tried to attack you.

You always knew how to fix my cars, particularly if they were a Dodge, You would cuss the car when I started buying foreign ones. But you loved me so much that you went to the Madill Library and looked in their CHilton's book and found out how to fix my latest car if I needed it.

I always got to be the one called to fix your remote or your phone because Debbie got you some new technology device that you didn't know how to operate.

Oh and the many times at family dinner and we would have to ask you if you wore your hearing aids because you could not hear us. Sometimes, I think you did that just to razz us because then you would just smile and start laughing because you got one up on us.

My most recent and best memory is when you wanted to know when Chris was going to marry me. You told me, " Honey do not worry I am going to ask him when he plans on putting that ring on your finger." I knew I could count on you.

Sadly, the older I get the more I realize my world is getting smaller. Thank you so much for being a part of my life. Thank you for teaching me things that helped me be more independent and self sufficient.

YOU are GREATLY MISSED.

Love Tammie
