“ Although I didn’t know Becky as long as I would have loved to of known her, she and Travis quickly became friends and neighbors to both Brian and I. We will always appreciate how welcoming you both were. Becky was always so kind and sweet, the first time I met her in person the cows had gotten out, I went to help and then we got the truck stuck with a bale of hay on. Travis was gone that day working and Brian kept saying he’d come help (we needed to pull the truck out, but we were having a hard time getting the hydraulic hose off the tractor because it was hooked up to the brush hog) but we both were determined we didn’t need a mans help, at the time I was 4 months pregnant so I wasn’t much help. We eventually got it because of Becky’s determination. 🤝 I don’t know how many times I told Brian how I wish I had her energy, and not only that she had so much determination and ambition. She also had a kind heart and I’ll always remember her for that.

To Travis the road ahead is going to be tough and no matter what anyone says or does nothing will take away the pain. Just know that Gods grace is what will get you through these hard times, turn to him every chance you get and he will guide you. We are always here for you.

Always,

Brian, Cassie, and Waylon Flanders
