“ This is to the lady who raised me. Little did I know that on February 1st 2021 would be the last time I got to hear your sweet voice and happiness. That day is the day I told myself to start preparing yourself and pray about accepting the fact that you could possible be leaving us soon. I swear Grandma if I had known you were not gunna be with us after that day I'd made it home faster so you could have seen Chase and I. I promise you I'd done everything in my power to try and help you. Im sorry I wasn't there to do so. I promise you im gunna do all I can to make sure papa is ok. Im gunna make sure he is cared for. He misses you just know that. I just thought you know I would have more time with you to be able to so much more for you. Like buy you a house and land. But life is so much shorter than we think. I should have gotten my act together way before now. Fly High with your sister and brother and momo. The good lord answered my prayErs just not as I expected them to be answered. Love Chase & Papa Destiny& Nick. I know your enjoying life with no worries. I LOVE You
