“ My precious Khloebear, where do I begin? You would have turned 3 this year. I wonder so much about the little person you would be growing into. Would you have had your Mommy's radiant smile? Your Daddy's snarky sense of humor? Your big sister's beauty, bright blonde hair, & sass? Your Pa's infectious laughter? Your MiMi's musical talents? Your Grandpa Roger's love of rodeos & balloon animals? Your Nonna's passion for nursing? Would you still look like me? I have so, so many questions. Have you met your Granny, Aunt Julie, & Papa James in Heaven? What is Jesus like? Are you running in the fields chasing Copper, Pepper, Sadie, Precious, & Midas? I know you have a new body & aren't sick anymore. I'm so happy for that. Watching you take your last little breaths was the hardest thing I've ever done. You took a piece of my heart that night you left. It belongs to you anyway. Keep it safe for me, okay? I know you're in a far better place than we are. But, I miss you. I have loved you since the very second I heard you were coming into our lives. I remember every single detail on the night I found out. We had so many hopes & dreams for you. I couldn't love or miss you more if I tried. I think about you all the time. The tears & hurt seem to sneak in more and more, but I know you are where you were always meant to be. You achieved in 26 days what most people go through our whole lives trying to attain. The eternal reward of Heaven. I feel comfort knowing all my questions will be answered some day. I know you're watching over us. You will have a new baby brother in August. I know you are watching over him, too. One day we'll all be together again. Probably causing mischief because it's what we girls do. I'll be brushing your hair, painting your nails, eating tons of junk food. We'll talk about clothes, shopping, & boys. That's what Auntie's do, right? Thinking about these things finally make me smile. We have a bond that will always be. It didn't end when you passed on. Your body was frail, but your spirit was strong. You endured more physical pain in those few days that most won't have in a lifetime. You hardly ever cried. You were so brave and I learned so much from you. Babygirl, I just want you to know that you will NEVER be forgotten. Here for a short time. In our hearts forever. Rest peacefully sweet angel

“ *Hailee and Jeremy,
We just wanted to express the sorrow we feel for your loss. We wish we could take your pain away, but that will take time and God's healing. Khloe is one of God's perfect little angels now.
All our love, Aunt Judy and Uncle Don*
