“ Oh what can I say, he was the love of my life. I new from the moment that I first meet him I was going to be his wife. We had our ups and downs but we worked through them. We only had a few arguments. Yes we had our disagreements but at the end of the day we where good and if either one of us was in the wrong who would be apologizing to each other. And he would tell me in his way that I love me this much, and the first time I heard him tell me that it reminded me of my daddy, and we always said I love you and good night. He but beside me through thick and thin through my cancer and sickness conditionally. He love my kids and grandkids with his whole heart. Oh but if he thought they were doing wrong he would be the first to say something, he would praise them on there good and tell them do the best you can be. He love his kids so much. We would talk about how we need to go see them more. And I know he regrets not going like he should of. And oh talk about his great grandkids both mine and our little princess you could see stars in his eyes. There is so much I can say but, it will take up all the site. Oh babe I here you talking to me every day. I will love you always and forever. Your wife

“ Manny has always told us love me too when you would say I love you! He always had a sense of humor sometimes it was dry sometimes it was funny and sometimes he just wanted to aggravate. But one thing I do know is he loved his Wife Sandra very much! The love they had for each other was so great. You will for sure be missed. We will take care of her from here! Thank you for Loving my kids as your own grown kids (White Girl) that's what he called me.
