“ I remember growing up and my mom would pick me up from my grandmas. We would stop for gas and every single time, she would buy me a bug juice for the road. For you it's a simple memory, but for me it's a ritual of her love. How she showed it through acts of service. This is how she lived her life by doing what she was able for others. Putting thought and intent into everything. I love you forever mom💜
